MEMORANDUM

TO: La Salle University Community

FROM: Nancy Brewer

DATE: February 23, 1998

re: Rosemary Barbera's departure

As you probably read in the Collegian a couple weeks ago, Rosemary Barbera will be leaving La Salle University's Center for Community Learning to lead the Philadelphia Higher Education Network for Neighborhood Development (PHENND). To honor her and express our appreciation of the contributions she has made to the community, a farewell reception will be held on Friday, March 13, 1998 from 3:30 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. in the Dunleavy Room.

Rosemary has a long history with the University that includes being an undergraduate and graduate student, Financial Aid Counselor, Foreign Student Advisor, Associate Director in Campus Ministry and currently, the Director of the Center for Community Learning. Her leadership of and vision for the Center for Community Learning have made it a model program for other colleges and universities. Under Rosemary's direction, the Center has grown into an excellent resource for faculty and one of the finest programs for the development of student leadership and social action on campus. While Rosemary is leaving our campus, she has promised to be back often. La Salle University is a founding member of PHENND and as such we will continue to be actively involved in Rosemary's new endeavors.

Please join us in sharing our appreciation of Rosemary's contributions by attending her reception on March 13th!

Campus News is distributed weekly to foster communication and encourage information sharing among University departments. Articles submitted are the responsibility of their authors alone and do not imply an opinion on the part of La Salle University or the Department of Mail and Duplicating Services.

RE: Guest Chefs at Charter Dinner, Friday, March 20, 1998

As you might recall from previous years, faculty, administrators, and staff have served as guest chefs at the on-campus Charter Dinner. Chefs have torched creme brulee, dipped strawberries in chocolate, made Belgian waffles, and served salad. All who have participated report having a good time. Chefs last year included the President, Provost, Vice Presidents, Deans, faculty, other administrators, and staff. If you would like to be a Guest Chef, please call (x1269), e-mail me (hoersch@lasalle.edu), or write. Thanks.

Curriculum Committee
Minutes of January 27, 1998

Present: J. Baky, A. Bean, J. Beitz, N. Brewer, M. Burke, C. Freeman, B. Jones, B. Millard, S. Mudrick (for B. Bruce), V. Nieves, R. Nigro, D. Smith, S. Smith, F.T. Nguyen, A Walsh, Z. Wolf.

1. The minutes of December 5, 1997 were unanimously approved with the addition of a line highlighting the need to examine course duplication. A consideration of course duplication across schools and between departments needs to be a future agenda item.
2. The Spring Semester meeting schedule was reviewed. Future meetings will be February 19, March 10 and April 14, 1998.
3. Following the approval of the Latin American course for the BUSCA program, a student member of the committee expressed an interest he found among other students in Latin American history courses. Dr. Millard explained that the History Department regularly offers courses in the day division.
4. A brief update on the Curriculum Design Committee's (CDC) work was offered by S. Smith. With the exception of the upcoming round table on Catholic identity, the information collection from the round table discussions has been completed. The CDC is starting to work on the development of two to three alternative models as per their charge. The February meeting of the Curriculum Committee will be a joint meeting with the CDC. At that time a time-line for the next six months will be determined.
5. G. Molyneaux, L. Texter and M. Dainton presented the proposed curriculum revision for the Communication Department. The proposed changes include the following:
 - the proposal of a new Film Studies track that rotates courses and would utilize the current hardware
 - a re-organized and more focused Human Communication track that eliminates five courses and adds four courses
 - a number of minor changes in the titles of courses
 - COM 400 Communication Ethics as the capstone course for all Communication majors
 - A net gain of three new courses (one in public relations, one in writing, and two rotating in film studies) and a net loss of one course in human communication.

Concern was expressed about course duplication with the English and marketing departments. A request was made for course syllabi that may represent duplication with Communication course syllabi. These will be distributed to the Committee for consideration at the February meeting. The Committee may also need greater specificity on the courses which will be rotated and the frequency of the rotation. The Committee decided it would not vote on the proposal until the next meeting and that the approval process would be done in stages so each part of the proposal could have a separate deliberation.

6. The meeting was adjourned at 4:15 p.m.

Minutes - 9 February, 1998

Present: Rosemary Barbera, Mary Burke, Eileen Giardino, Tom McPhillips, Lynn Miller, Marc Moreau, Fran Ryan, Steve Smith, Margaret Watson, Jeannie Welsh, Sam Wiley

Excused: Chris Pinto

Meeting called to order at 4:34 p.m. and the minutes from the prior meeting were approved with some minor modifications.

The Committee then turned to a discussion of its work from the previous Saturday. Special focus was given to the results of that extended work session and the upcoming report of the Curriculum Design Committee to the Curriculum Committee.

The task of comparing three curricular templates was then begun. These templates were offered by three individual members of the Committee, with additional input of the remainder of the Committee. The templates were discussed as they might relate to different schools and academic disciplines. There was discussion about how to ensure that the learning goals would be met by all students.

Regarding the meeting with the Curriculum Committee, members decided to give a report on the continuing work of the Curriculum Design Committee and ask for feedback. Also, possible points of clarification were discussed.

Meeting was adjourned at 6:00 pm.

Respectfully submitted,

Rosemary A. Barbera

To: All Members of the University Community
From: The Campus Ministry
Center

Over the years many schools have produced collections of prayers and readings which members of the community have found particularly helpful while on their personal spiritual journeys. Some of you may have seen the Notre Dame Prayer Book, or a friend might have shared the publication created recently by Holy Family College. It has been suggested that we might want to do the same.

We are sending you this memo to "test the waters" and to suggest a variation by creating:

An On-Line Collection of Prayers and Readings

This collection would be available through the Campus Ministry page on the La Salle University Web Site and would, therefore, be available not only to current members of the community but also to alumni, friends, and those who are interested in getting to know us better. The diversity of its content could reflect the variety of religious heritages present in the community.

Let us know what you think... Would you be interested in participating in such a project? Would you be interested in using such a resource yourself? Do you have an ideas which could make this idea a better one?

Send an e-mail to echelmei@lasalle.edu, or drop us a note through Campus Mail. This is the kind of project which will need a fairly broad base of support for it to work. Give it some thought and get back to us when you can. THANKS!

Bill Moyer has made a series on addiction and it's going to run during March. The first is Sunday, 3/29 at 9-11p.m. called "Portrait of Addiction" and the "Hijacked Brain: and then on Monday 3/30, there is "The Next Generation" concluding with Tues 3/31 "The Politics of Addiction". They all start at 9pm but on Monday and Tuesday, I think they're over at 10:00 pm

The snippet in the PBS program guide looks quite good....talking about recent research, public policy analyses, personal stories from recovering people....etc.

I, personally, like Bill Moyers stuff....feels like he does a really nice job presenting complex material and tying in the human side. I loved his series on Healing and the Mind, alot.

Subject: WWW Roundtable Discussion

Dear Faculty/Staff:

La Salle's Web Site is currently undergoing many changes in efforts to increase our marketability and provide a resource for faculty and students. With the advent of both personal and departmental web sites on campus, a large amount of the information presented under "www.lasalle.edu" falls into the hands of many faculty and staff members appointed as webmasters. These appointed webmasters often provide the best source of experience for others to emulate.

With these facts in mind, the Information Technology Department will be holding a roundtable discussion for faculty/staff who currently manage and create La Salle web sites on March 17th, 1998 at 12:30-2:30 in the Lawrence Conference Room, 4th Floor, Administration Building.

This meeting is meant to share ideas, "best practices," and general information about creating, editing, and managing web sites at La Salle. Other topics:

- Look and Feel
- Interactivity
- Feedback / Sharing Tips
- Best Tools for Editing and Managing
- IT guidelines for department pages and file permissions
- Questions answered on implementing La Salle University page templates and logos

Also, a personal computer will be arranged for demonstrations.

“To Serve My Country; To Serve My Race”

During World War II, hundreds of African-American women served their country in the Army and in the Navy. Rarely, however, do we hear their stories.

On March 15 and March 16, Channel 56 will be broadcasting the documentary “To Serve My Country To Serve My Race” produced and directed by Lawrence E. Walker. Focussing on the 688th Battalion, the documentary tells the story of what these women experienced during their training in the U.S. and when they served overseas.

On March 17 @ 12:30 in the Dunleavy Room, Mrs. Janyce Stovall Taylor and Mrs. Katheriene Nance, two women who served their country and their race during WWII will be sharing their stories and their experiences with us. (Mrs. Nance is featured in the documentary.) Please let your students know of this special event. It is not often that we get to personally hear from those who made history.

Brother's a keeper

La Salle's president has led by example.

Brother Joseph F. Burke, who is stepping down as La Salle University's president in June, has done outstanding work both for his institution and his city.

Building on La Salle's long tradition of community service, Brother Burke encouraged more students, faculty and staff to volunteer in their Northwest Philadelphia neighborhoods. They feed the hungry, remove graffiti, clean up Wistar Woods, mentor children living in foster homes. In 1996, the La Salle community donated 100,000 hours to more than 25 community groups.

Last fall the U.S. Labor Department acknowledged La Salle's contributions with its Exemplary Voluntary Efforts award, the first private university so honored in the award's 15-year history.

Community outreach isn't the only place where Brother Burke made his mark.

When he became president in 1992, enrollment had slipped and the school was struggling to compete with lower-cost colleges. He boldly invested $4.5 million in a modern communications center that has drawn many students. He added three master's degree programs and reorganized the administration to combine academic affairs and student life. He reestablished the school's football program after more than 50 years and brought the school into the Atlantic 10.

The policies have paid off handsomely. Enrollment has grown steadily since 1995, reaching nearly 3,000. The college's endowment jumped 70 percent to $39.7 million, and it also recently opened a campus in Newtown, Bucks County.

Even as he made these complex moves, Brother Burke made sure to teach a course each semester and often joined students in the dorms for meals.

After a yearlong sabbatical starting in July, Brother Burke will return to La Salle as a classroom teacher. He's been teaching by example all along.
